"Where to now, Saint Peter?"

In the previous edition, I admit that Emil catfished me into believing that his tribute to his late Uncle Albert was going to be a nice pictorial of 1912 Europa or the world – as I had heard that his uncle had spent most of his life traveling to the oddest places known to 20th Century CIS Humanity. Instead, he continued down the multiverse rabbit hole and made a concerted effort to drag the memory of his uncle down with him.

Being so fooled, I expressed my displeasure to Emil in words that I can not repeat here due to our strong censorship and liable laws.
In return, Emil tested my patience with this newest edition which seems to continue his obsession with this whole Ahriman and Multiverse theme narrative.

“Where to now, Saint Peter?”

My Legal Beagle, Ms. Kimmie, has advised that I should not get off into the weeds in this debate as there are strong opinion(s) on both sides of the argument and thus, prevents WWWG from becoming a party in an upcoming litigation by the Ahriman Legal Team or as Emil refers to them as Ahriman’s WEF Goonie Advance Team.
Instead, I will offer our

And, further, to advise you at the express concern of Mister

My final thought:
"Who in the hell is this

"Where to now, Saint Peter?"

It is with sadness in my heart that I heard that Seine felt that I had mislead him. While it might be fair to suggest that I had not gone into the depth of details as to what type of journey(s) that I was referring to.
Still, this is not saying that there is not truth on every page as I explained that being a card-carrying Jesuit of Truth; I am sworn to tell the truth even at great distress to my social credit score. My Uncle Albert devoted his early life in search of the truth of the Multiverse as he was driven by an inner desire to seek out the unknown and to explore the most remote locations on Earth (and in this regards, the whole of an unknown universe) much as many of his generation were. Much to Seine and WWWG's disdain and economic concern, I am swore to carry out my uncle's dyeing desire to share these postcards that he personally acquired in his numerous journey through the lower reaches of the Multiverse as a means of helping the Mystery Schools show that the Multiverse is real and alive with billions of spirits and that they are not catfishing CIS Humanity in offering them a path to citizenship in the Multiverse.

In the end, as even the foulest of the world's Intel Overlords notes in their personal mantra:
"In the end, the truth will always be the truth."
Not to say that they practice what they preach as many of them are believed to have come out of the oil fields in West Texas where their mantra is:
"Never let the truth stand in the way of a good story!"
